Advocacy

If you are a USA-based mixer, then please support our local vape advocacy programs/groups:

Pacific Legal Foundation is pursuing a vape lawsuit challenging the FDA’s unconstitutional deeming of certain vapor products as tobacco. This lawsuit is unique because it challenges the legality of unelected bureaucrats writing regulations with the force of law. These regulations take away basic freedom of speech rights guaranteed by the first amendment, and deny “We the People” the prerogative to elect and hold accountable the representatives who pass laws on our behalf.

Consumer Advocates for Smoke-free Alternatives Association (CASAA) is leading the charge to mobilize our grass roots, defending their rights to choose vapor instead of cigarette smoke. As a consumer advocacy organization, they defend our vape community in public forums by advancing the truth of empowerment and harm reduction that electronic vapor devices facilitate. Right now, they are defending your right to use flavoring when you chose not to smoke cigarettes.

Introduction

Do It Yourself (DIY eJuice)

DIY ejuice is an art form. Like painting, sculpting, and music, it is a form of expression and identity. DIY vape is a dynamic form requiring both training and talent to achieve the highest levels – and it does not happen in a vacuum – excellence happens in a community of free speech. Premium ejuice is the result of critique, improvement, adaptation, and growth.

The DIY vape juice movement is a global community of individual artists and aficionados who empower themselves with the skill to vape the way that they prefer. It is a hobby, a business, and a lifeline for many who have joined the exodus from tobacco products. This recipe book is meant to be a simple resource for that community.

Regardless of experience and skill level, the recipes in this book provide a starting point for new, personal development projects with vapor.

The artists featured in this book have been generous to share their skills with the community so that everyone can benefit. Their example should be followed not just in mixing excellent vape juices, but by sharing those recipes with others. This book is just one place to share. There are also indispensable resources available online. All should be explored, and supported.

Flavorah

The Flavoring for Vape Juice

Our mission at Flavorah is to eliminate tobacco from common use. In order to accomplish our mission, we create concentrated vapor flavorings from the ground up that are so good, smokers never need to strike a match again. We focus all of our energy and attention to the flavoring that makes DIY and craft ejuice an art form.

We believe that anyone can overcome smoking by using the power of flavored vape. This book is meant to empower people to take control of what they smoke by using the first flavoring built from the ground up to mix well, steep quickly, and vape with brilliant flavor notes.

Flavorah is food grade Flavoring, but it is different from multipurpose flavors that were used by the early DIY vape juice makers. Multipurpose flavorings designed for beverage, baking, and candy may contain preservatives, coil gunking additives, colors, and sweeteners that often result in an inferior product. These multipurpose flavors are often heavily diluted and must be used at higher rates, so even though they may seem cheaper, they become more expensive and less useful in the long run.

Flavorah created a new category of flavoring: flavorings made for vapor. Today, the Flavorah vape flavor line is over 180 unique flavors that serve both commercial and DIY ejuice manufacturers around the world, including some of the world’s most recognizable and premium vape juice brands.

Each Flavorah flavoring has been crafted to create a vape experience for DIY vape juice so good that nicotine is not intended – or advised. Empowerment through flavoring is a tool that many smokers have used to break free of analog combustion and also the way that we complete our mission as a company. This recipe book will help vapers discover the empowering and limitless opportunities that this new category of real vape flavorings provides.

About the Editor

Ian Schmitt “Returnity” is the host and chief editor in this mixing adventure. As a scientist with over 4 years of mixing experience, his fascination with the chemistry of flavor drove him down the rabbit hole of ‘Deeper DIY’. Over the years helping moderate Reddit’s /r/DIY_ejuice community, Ian found himself constantly amazed by the incredible community of talented vapesmiths, all collaborating to perfect and share their creations.

The flavor profiles Ian contributed to the DIY community over the years speak for themselves, and even recipes he first shared years ago are still evolving as new flavors become available and new ideas are shared. DIY Vape Recipes

Basic DIY eJuice Mixing Guide

Supplies

To get you started mixing as quickly and easily as possible, the recipes in this book can all be mixed without any complex measurements or specialized lab equipment. All that is needed, besides Flavorah flavors and VG/PG base, are bottles to mix and store the creations.

Some basic tools are highly recommended to help empower the mixing process. These tools can be found from DIY ejuice suppliers online, and include:

- Splash-proof eye protection and gloves for safety.
- 120mL glass dropper bottles for easy “shake and vape” mixing.
- Disposable plastic pipettes, a small graduated cylinder, and blunt or oral syringes for measuring.
- A small digital gram scale with 0.01g precision.

Mixing and Measuring

There are several ways to mix e-liquid, ranging from the simple by-the-drop method, which requires no extra tools, to the more complex methods that measure by volume or by weight for greater scalability, precision, and accuracy.

- To mix any recipe using this guide, first print out your desired recipe.
- Gather all required flavors, VG and PG bases, and any tools needed.
- Find a clean area away from distractions (electronics, food, drinks, etc.).
- Once ready to mix, add the flavors to an empty mixing bottle. Be sure to recap the flavors after use and set aside before picking up the next flavor – this helps avoid accidental mix-ups of flavors or bottle caps.
- Next, add the PG/VG or a premixed base. The recipes in this book all include recommended amounts of VG and PG suggested by the creators, but feel free to adjust the ratios to preference.

Disposable pipettes are marked on the side to help easily dispense the correct mL amount, making them perfect for this method.

In order to provide mixing measurements in grams and drops, a standard batch size of 100mL was used to keep things simple. If a different amount is needed, multiply the given measurement in grams or drops by the desired volume. For example, for a batch size of 60mL, multiply each amount by 60/100 (or 0.60) to get the measurements needed.

VG is extremely thick when cool. It helps to warm the VG in hot water to make it easier to work with when dispensing or measuring.

In regards to PG/VG amounts, simple rules of thumb: 70-85% VG performs best in high-airflow, high-wattage, sub-ohm vape tanks and RTAs which depend on the liquid to flow through some type of wick; while max VG (usually 90% or more) often has no added PG and works best in re-buildable RDA atomizers.

Notes on Mixing by Drops

Mixing with drops is a fast and easy way to mix up small batches and for creating and testing out prototype recipes.

When mixing by drops, it’s very important to hold the bottle or dropper vertically when dispensing flavoring – holding the bottle at an angle can produce inconsistent drop sizes.

Some Flavorah flavorings are highly-concentrated, which means batches less than 100mL would not yield very accurate drop measurements. If planning to mix batches less than 100mL, it is recommended that you make a dilution of these flavors.

Notes on Mixing by Weight

Mixing by weight is the preferred way to mix eliquid for many DIY enthusiasts and professional mixologists. This is due to the precision and simplicity the method allows to scale up and down.

It’s a general assumption in DIY when mixing small batches of 1L or less, that all flavors weigh 1g/mL. The precise weights of each Flavorah flavoring are available on our website and will help yield the most precise measurements for larger batches:

Once ready to mix by weight, zero out the scale with an empty mixing bottle on it. Add the first flavor, slowly. Some scales take a moment to read the weight accurately – allow the scale to catch up prior to adding more to avoid over-dispensing.

Zero out the scale after each flavor, cap the flavoring bottle, and set it aside to avoid mix-ups. It’s that simple – no counting drops or measuring beforehand. Once flavors are added, it is ready for base.

Due to its density, 1mL of VG weighs about 1.26g – the recipes in this book take this into account when giving measurements by weight for VG. When customizing batch size calculations, account for this by multiplying the volume of VG desired by 1.26 to get the correct weight to add to the mix via scale.

Aging / Steeping

As ejuice ages, flavors meld with the flavorless base in a process that is commonly referred to as “steeping.” The flavors and base are becoming a more homogeneous mixture. New flavor notes will emerge and the profile will develop during this time.

Flavorah flavorings are the first food grade flavors that are designed to stand out in a vape juice recipe. In practice this results in much less need for extended aging periods to achieve distinct notes compared to what other multipurpose flavorings need.

Additionally, much of what has become known as the “steeping” process by ejuice makers is actually accelerated oxidation of the flavorings caused by the addition of freebase nicotine. We do not advise or intend that nicotine is used with the recipes in this book. If nicotine is not added, this undesirable oxidation does not occur and the initial flavoring profile of the recipe will be maintained more consistently over time.

The recipes in this book all include a recommended aging time from the creator. This is not a hard rule, and there is no wrong answer when it comes to aging eliquids. However, it’s highly recommended that stirring, shaking, and/or homogenizing immediately takes place after mixing.

Almost any recipe will be noticeably better-tasting 12-24 hours after mixing, even if it’s thoroughly shaken at the time. While it’s perfectly fine to “shake and vape” any mix, don’t be discouraged if flavor is not as-desired immediately – just give it another try the next day.

It can be helpful to keep notes on how different mixes evolve as they age. Over time, discernible patterns will appear in how specific flavoring pairings interact, and this knowledge can be used to further fine-tune mixes. For example, mixers may notice that top notes (i.e. citrus fruits or florals) will appear very quickly, while base notes (i.e. custards or creams) will develop strength after aging.

Wild Melon is a bright, refreshing melon mix, with watermelon and honeydew in front. Cantaloupe accentuates juiciness, creaminess, and adds an authentic texture. Sweetness is optional, but can add a level of sweet without gunking coils.

7 days – Needs extra aging time for the flavors to blend properly.

Flavor Notes

“When a recipe has more dessert flavors than fruit flavors, it is best to have a higher percent of the fruit. The banana is sweet, fresh, with a slight candy vibe, and the Lemon is used for its ability to make other fruits stand out more.”

Flavor Notes

This mix was created via new flavor experimentation with Brie Cheese, Berry Blend, and Berry Cheesecake. Berry Blend provides a fresh base of mixed-berry compote. Berry Cheesecake works with Blueberry Muffin to fill in gaps, creating a potent cooked berry flavor. Brie Cheese adds to the cheesecake base profile alongside Cheesecake, Vanilla Custard, and Greek Yogurt (for tartness). Graham Cracker provides a graham crust.

Age Notes

Flavor Notes

Smooth bourbon oak barrel vanilla cream with subtle butterscotch and caramel back notes. Vanilla Bean is a lot lighter than the powerful Smooth Vanilla, when added to the cream flavors, a silky-smooth vanilla ice cream emerges. An accurate Oak Barrel, with a little Bourbon, Butterscotch, and Caramel, transforms this mix to a whiskey-soaked bourbon oak barrel. Butterscotch and Caramel add sweet notes. Reduce Oak Barrel and Bourbon for more of an ice cream vape.

Yakima Hops dances alongside boozy Apple Cider notes in this mix. Apple Pop adds a punch to the apple profile. Vanilla Pudding brings a base, smooth texture, and body. The warm spice creates a level of comfort – like a vaguely macho dessert served at a boutique hunter’s lodge. Welcome to Deer Lodge.

A bite of one of those vanilla and lemon flavored cartoon ice cream truck bars with the gum-ball eyes. Bubble Gum is authentic with less chalkiness than other manufacturers. Marshmallow tastes more realistic than any other on the market, and eliminates any need for sweetener as it smooths and softens the mouth-feel.

Flavor Notes

“You might want to increase the amounts, but as I have it here, the blueberries are rather top heavy, the cream is on par, the butterscotch and caramel lend the sweetness and the crust for pie is made from both crunch and cinnamon toast crunch. If you wanted to, you could add in some ginger snap for a ginger spiced crust.. The pineapple is there to brighten everything up!”

Root Beer is a tough flavor profile to nail, but this is closest on the market. Add Vanilla Bean and Cream for a creamy body and anchor. Smooth Vanilla provides lighter, sharper vanilla notes. Sweetness is always optional, but for a soda it helps sweeten and moisten the mix. Cool Menthol is used sparingly for that ice-cold refreshing drink effect. Sub Ice at 1.00% if you prefer over Cool Menthol. Up the vanillas and cream to yield a great Root Beer float.

Root Beer nails the top notes perfectly – an ideal blend of wintergreen, anise, and hints of sarsaparilla. Vanilla Bean provides a soft vanilla overtone and shows up just enough to keep the Root Beer authentic. Caramel adds a dark, syrupy sweetness. Lime was added to balance the Caramel, brighten up the back end, and give it that soda finish. Last but not least, Ginger provides the central note in this mix, creating the Ginger Beer we’ve all been looking for.

Flavor Notes

Pineapple and creamy Coconut are strong. Guanabana is used high to cut through the cream and yogurt, but remains subtle and blends well, with a profile best described as cross of mango and pineapple with a hint of banana cream. Soursop is similar, but with hints of musk and coconut. Cream helps soften the Greek Yogurt. Sweetness adds a sweet note without gunking coils. Add 0.50% Ice to cool off this warm yogurt smoothie.

Age Notes

7 days – Good as a shake and vape, it gets way better and complex as it steeps.

Flavor Notes

Created from a love for deep, complex Perique Tobaccos, this mix is dark, spicy, nutty, and has slight hints of fruit. Arabian Tobacco is optional, but recommended as it adds brings the recipe closer to “true” via spice and the darker fruit/raisin notes. Drop Kentucky Blend to 0.50% and increase Native Tobacco by the same amount for less ash. Add 0.20% Lovage Root for more of a musty “pipe” version. Heat can easily become too hot to vape, so just beware.

Age Notes

2 weeks – Steep time is mostly dictated by the tobacco. It works well after an overnight, and starts to fade out a bit on day 3, and comes back around after 2 weeks.

Flavor Notes

An aggressive dark, bready tobacco with a fruity fig finish. Non-aromatic Kentucky Blend was used here, but feel free to play with other non-aromatics. If there’s anything too close to an ammonia flavor in there, it’s going to push Fig into some weird off notes. Doesn’t seem to work particularly well with Oriental/Turkish/herbal tobaccos. Cured felt a little lighter worked alright tool.

Flavor Notes

A tobacco that exudes warmth, with a sweet and savory flavor. Apricot adds a subtle, balanced fruit flavor with a warm, jammy note. Heat offers a nice warming, slightly spice-like sensation, but cut down and add in later if you’re nervous. Smoked Butterscotch adds warm smoke note, sweet depth, and a bit of savory. Native is slightly sweet with honey and spice notes. Oriental is bright with a light woodsy scent, but not harsh or ashy. Cured ties it together, and remains smooth. Add Milk and Honey for a brilliant touch.

Red Burley and Cured seem to perfectly complement each other. While Red Burley makes Cured more exciting and authentic, Cured moderates Red Burley’s nuttiness. Tatanka adds depth and richness – it’s dessert characteristics blend the tobaccos into the dessert accent flavors. Smore brings a creamy texture, along with hints of toasted marshmallow and dark chocolate. Toffee and Caramel are both used to add a complex, rich, brown-sugar sweetness to the tobacco profile.

Super rich, butterscotch-caramel heavy tobacco with a creamy vanilla finish. If you’re a fan of RY4 style vapes, this is sweet and creamy, but still has deep, rich tobacco notes throughout. Turkish and Native are similar in taste with slight differences. Both are a bit spicy, but Turkish is has a creaminess whereas Native has hints of honey. Due to this spice, darker/woody flavors would mix well, hence Sweet Fig and Raisin Rum. Raisin Rum is more rummy than raisin. Sweet Fig provides more texture and definition to the raisin notes. The fig itself comes out most towards the end of the exhale. It all melds extremely well, and becomes a great tobacco vape.

Flavor Notes

“Beer Nuts is a rich mixed nut profile that perfectly complements the nuttiness of Red Burley, while Connecticut Shade and Cured Tobacco complete the multi-layered tobacco. Caramel sweetens things up and the slightly burnt sugar taste supports the dark coffee notes in Connecticut Shade. Smooth Vanilla is very strong and may need to be reduced a bit.”

Age Notes

1 week – Give it time to let the cream layers blend and settle, they find balance with the bold tobacco notes after a week or so.

Flavor Notes

“The design for this cigar was based on lessons from Fear and Kopel’s approach to FLV tobaccos, using Connecticut Shade as a leaf wrapper and filling it with a blend of Cured and Red Burley for a classic, rich cigar. The Vanillas anchor the profile, giving it depth and body and the Smoked Butterscotch makes for a perfect finishing touch.”

Age Notes

2-5 days – Can enjoy right away, but is better after 48 hours or so.

Flavor Notes

Creme de Menthe is critical here, nothing else can replicate the silky-smooth mouth-feel it lends the vapor, supported by White Chocolate. Spearmint provides a mild, flavorful minty note, opposed to using straight menthol. Lovage Root adds moisture and brings a sensation of a cool, foggy Pacific Northwest morning. Bump up the Spearmint or add 0.25% Cool Menthol to make into a menthol vape.

Flavor Notes

The spicy edge from Native and Turkish start this off. Turkish brings in the Eastern influence, Native darkens it up and lends a cigarish edge to the mix. Turkish and Native can both get a bit dark, but are not super complex on their own, which is where Connecticut Shade comes in. It brightens and adds nuanced depth. Wood Spice adds a woodsy spiced tone, and Pumpkin Spice is a great blend for a lot of reasons. Clove rounds things off.

Age Notes

10 days – Let this steep for a week or more to give the complex balance of flavors time to meld together.

Flavor Notes

“I used Connecticut Shade as my cigar leaf wrap and the mixture of Red Burley and Oriental Tobacco as my cigar filler. Tastes just like a honey backwoods cigar, and every day it ages, another back note comes out to play. You get a little caramel, butterscotch, honey, and even a little mocha/coffee all while vaping an unmistakable cigar flavor.”

Flavor Notes

Red Burley sits in front, making the base. At 2.75% there’s no mistaking it as the undisputed king of tobaccos. Cured Tobacco is sweeter with hints of pecan and cedar that fill the few gaps of Red Burley, adding nutty and woodsy tones. Native Tobacco is Kentucky Blend’s spicy sweet cousin, with a sharp spice note and a light honeyed finish. Lovage Root adds a sweet moisture, shifting towards a fresher, not-fully-dried pipe tobacco. Wood Spice boosts the woodsy notes already present.

Age Notes

2 weeks – Calms a bit on a 2 week steep, essential for a sub-ohm type of application.

Flavor Notes

A dry, heavily aromatic sandalwood (Wood Spice) tobacco with grapefruit and vanilla accents. Pink Guava was a natural aromatic match, with a sweeter, fruitier body. Vanilla Bean adds dark, robust vanilla notes. Super-concentrated Smooth Vanilla punches it up. Cured acts as a drier base, with light sandalwood notes. Reduce the Wood Spice for sub-ohm if the sandalwood notes are too much, or mix 50/50 in a MTL tank, preferably with nicotine salts. Find your inner peace.

Age Notes

4 days – Try it as it ages, the profile shifts substantially in the first week.

Flavor Notes

“This stuff is insanely delicious, perfectly balancing fruity sweetness with rich, complex tobacco and a nuanced cream. Coconut and Peach are used to blend the creamy and fruity notes, enriching and broadening the Cantaloupe’s succulent flavor. The Butterscotch supports the creamy fruit flavor, while distinctly but subtly extending Milk and Honey.
For a barrel-aged flavor, add 0.50% Oak Barrel and 0.50% Caramel.”

Age Notes

1 day – Vape within a week. If you are gonna let it steep add another 0.20-0.40% and then let it sit for a while. The lime will be overpowering initially.

Flavor Notes

Cavendish is a slightly spiced pipe tobacco with hints of cherry sweetness. At 0.20%, it gives a nice complexity and helps fill the empty spots of Shade and Cured. Shade provides a cigar wrap tobacco leaf. Cured is the classic cigar filler tobacco base. Lime Wedge adds a natural sour twinge. Coconut adds a lightly sweetened coconut flesh with a toasted note.

Age Notes

5-7 days – This one benefits from a week or so of aging to let the vanilla custard notes bloom throughout the mix.

Flavor Notes

A rich vanilla custard with accents of tobacco, graham cracker, and toasted almonds. Tatanka provides the perfect base for a dessert tobacco. Red Burley and Oriental add presence and definition to the tobacco, so it isn’t lost in the custard-like notes of Vanilla Pudding, Vanilla Bean, and Butterscotch. Biscotti adds a toasted-almond accent and a grainy texture, rounding out the profile.
